The AnyDVD controls is missing from settings.

Symptoms:

The AnyDVD configuration area in the My Movies settings is not available, and cannot be located in the settings area on the "Disc Copier" section. I can however see this section in documentation and screenshots on the My Movies website.

Cause:

AnyDVD is illegal to redistribute with software in some countries, and to ensure that installers do not redistribute software with such functionality by default, the AnyDVD section is hidden by default on these installations, but can be added by clicking a key combination.
